Egypt	Nevine Hindy	STEM Teacher Preparation Program	In September 2011, the Egyptian Ministry of Education (MOE) introduced advanced Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) education, as part of its formal secondary education system, targeting gifted students who have the desire and aptitude to pursue specialized and advanced levels of science and mathematics to progress on to higher education. To-date, the MOE established nine STEM schools and is planning to establish eighteen more schools by school year 2018/2019. The planned expansion of STEM education in Egypt has already created demand for highly qualified and skilled STEM teachers who have a solid command of English language and demonstrated understanding of STEM concepts. To satisfy the needs of STEM education, USAID/Egypt is planning to fund the implementation of a STEM Teacher Preparation program, which aims at: 1. Providing pre-service teacher candidates with deep content knowledge and the ability to continually refine their STEM pedagogical skills; and 2. Supporting teachers already within the Ministry of Education's system as they transition from teaching through traditional lecture to project-based and inquiry-based pedagogy. The program will support the expansion and sustainability of STEM education by preparing candidate teachers to deliver STEM curricula, adopt evolving STEM teaching methodologies, and engage in research and innovation, in addition to strengthening STEM in-service professional development programs. Pre-service and in-service teacher education institutions will institutionalize the development and dissemination of new STEM knowledge. USAID/Egypt recognizes that STEM teacher education requires systemic reform that will involve higher education institutions, the Ministries of Education and Higher Education, and STEM schools. Further, excellence in STEM learning involves linking professors, teachers, and students to the global knowledge economy in order to remain relevant in the ever-evolving area of science, technology, engineering and mathematics. Morocco	Naja Mesfioui	Support to label Commune Citoyenne Initiative	Label Commune Citoyenne is a quality label designed for Moroccan municipalities that promote good governance practices. USAID has been engaged in a co-design effort of this locally-driven initiative along with the German Development Agency (GIZ), and several local NGOs. While this initiative is about granting labels to communes who meet a certain number of good-governance indicators, the difficulty is to support communes that are nearly eligible for the label but are lacking in one or more principles/indicators. Under this proposed program, USAID could provide the necessary support to some of these communes so that they can meet these principles. The proposed USAID program would focus on the principles of participation and transparency, which are interrelated and directly tie in to USAID/Morocco's DO2: increased civic participation and governance. Uganda	Fatumah Mutaasa	USAID Regional Health Integration to Enhance Services in Eastern Uganda (RHITES-E)	The purpose of this activity for Regional Health Integration to Enhance Services in Eastern Uganda (RHITES-E) is to secure services to support the design and implementation of a comprehensive, integrated investment in regional health, HIV/AIDS, and nutrition assistance. The activity will focus on maximizing the impact of the Government of Uganda (GOU), the United States Government (USG), and other investments in health services and systems using a district-based integrated package of quality health, HIV/AIDS, nutrition, and child development services to contribute to significant, measurable, and sustainable impact on the beneficiary population. The support to districts under Regional Health Integration to Enhance Services in Eastern Uganda will be complemented by linkages with national health programs and systems. This five-year activity targets 21 districts in Eastern Uganda and two districts in Karamoja (Kotido and Moroto) with an estimated total population of 5.33 million, and builds on previous USAID-funded efforts to address HIV/AIDS, tuberculosis (TB), family planning (FP), malaria, nutrition, and maternal, neonatal, and child health (MNCH) as well as other related projects in the Eastern region. RHITES-E is one of the upcoming USAID/Uganda activities for comprehensive regional health and HIV/AIDS programs to build on USAID health programs that are ongoing, closing or have ended. The overall goal of this activity is to increase utilization of health services and will be measured through progress in the following key result areas: (1) Increased availability of and accessibility to health services; (2) Improved quality of health services; (3) Increased availability of resources for public sector health services; (4) Improved organization and management of service delivery; and (5) Increased adoption of healthy behaviors and positive child development practices by communities in focus areas and target population groups. The Longitudinal Youth Cohort Study will focus on participants aged 18-25, enrolling between January and April 2017, in the following five USAID-supported Youth Development Resource Centers (YDRCs): Group (1) Qalqilya, Jenin, Jericho; Group (2), Hebron, Jerusalem and Nablus. The Youth Cohort Study is designed to be a panel study, collecting data on the same group of youth over an 18 month period following enrollment in the USAID-supported YDRC. This approach provides more reliable and nuanced information about youth outcomes and allows for the benefits of the program to accrue before final data collection. The Youth Cohort Study will include both quantitative and qualitative methods and include household surveys for a subset of youth in the study.
