Partner: Counterpart International

Active: September 2019- September 2020

Works directly with civil society, media, democracy, human rights activists and groups vulnerable to online attacks, hacks, data seizures, and surveillance. ISC supports its beneficiaries with a sustained and ongoing mentoring approach that helps them develop and implement safe communication protocols, appropriate information security, and good digital hygiene. ISC is currently working with over 24 civil society and media organizations in Armenia.

EDUCATION AND HEALTH

American Schools and Hospitals Abroad (ASHA)

Partner: American University of Armenia Corporation; Armenian American Cultural Association, Inc.

Active: Ongoing

With ASHA support, the American University of Armenia constructed and renovated its facilities making them highly effective, practical, modern, and in line with international standards. ASHA has also supported the Armenian-American Wellness Center to procure commodities to enable the expansion of diagnostic and surgical services in order to meet the ever increasing demand from returning and new patients seeking reliable healthcare services.

Strengthening Collection, Management and Use of Quality Routine Data for the Provision of Child Protection and Care in Armenia

Partner: Data for Impact (D4I), Palladium

Active: 2020- 2023

Works to improve processes, information systems and coordination of staff and resources to monitor Armenia's progress on care reform and the provision of child protection and social work services. Improves child protection and care by strengthening the Government of Armenia's ability to collect, manage and use data for effective case management. Supports ministries to further develop M&E processes, finalize an information system to capture data on alternative care, and formalize roles and responsibilities for data collection and reporting.

CIVIL SOCIETY AND MEDIA

Civil Society Organization (CSO) Sustainability Index (SI)

Partner: Civic Development and Partnership Foundation

Active: Renews on annual bases

Assesses the capacity of civil society to serve as both a short-term partner in implementing development solutions and a long-term actor in ensuring that development outcomes are sustained. This SI allows local civil society to assess the environment in which they are operating and their capacity to advocate, operate sustainably and communicate with citizens. The SI assesses seven key components: legal environment, organizational capacity, financial viability, advocacy, service provision, sectoral infrastructure and public image; it is a useful measure for local civil society organizations, governments, funders and academicians.

Civil Society Innovation Initiative (CSII)

Partner: CIVICUS; Sub-Partner: Partnership and Teaching NGO

Active: TBC

Supports and empowers CSOs in Armenia to better respond to COVID-19 by being more constituent-driven and engaging citizens in oversight of governance processes. The activity also works to link Armenian CSOs with regional and global CSO networks to share knowledge and experience around advocacy, communication, and research.

Trusts to Unite Societies in Transatlantic Space (TRUSTS)

Partner: German Marshall Fund of the United States

Active: September 2017- September 2022

Prague Civil Society Centre (PCSC)

Partner: Prague Civil Society Centre

Active: September 2016- September 2021

Works to empower civil society actors from Eastern Europe to Central Asia in their efforts to promote individual freedom, human rights and dignity, and the rule of law. Using both innovative and existing approaches, the Centre promotes cooperation, information sharing, and learning both within countries' civil society sectors and across borders. PCSC was founded in June 2015 with support from USAID, the Mott Foundation, the Oak Foundation and the Governments of Sweden and the Czech Republic, and incubated over a two year time period by the Czech-based NGO, People in Need. The Centre, independent as of November 2016, continues to explore innovative approaches to civil society empowerment across Europe and Eurasia.

Regional Investigative Journalism Network (RIJN)

Partner: International Center for Journalists (ICFJ), Organized Crime and Corruption Reporting Project (OCCRP)

Active: March 2011 - March 2021

Links practicing investigative journalists across the Europe & Eurasia region with the goal of building citizen demand to reduce corruption, fraud, and other criminal activities through increased exposure to professionally produced, cross-border investigative journalism. The four program objectives are: 1) Investigative journalists and/or centers in three sub-regional geographic areas are virtually and actually linked to create collaborative, regionally significant content. 2) Use of secure, shared communications systems and digital technology applications is increased. 3) Investigative journalism is conducted according to high professional standards. 4) Collaboratively produced content is web-published for broad distribution and/or replication, and usage is tracked.

Vibrant Information Barometer

Partner: IREX

Active: September 2019 - September 2024

Building on the Media Sustainability Index, IREX has developed the Vibrant Information Barometer (VIBE), which is designed to better capture and measure the way information is produced, spread, and used today. VIBE will be based on four principles: Content that Matters: examining how both professional and non-professional producers produce information (and what types of information exist); examining content quality, content diversity, and the economic resources available to produce content; Multiple Channels: examining how formal and informal channels yield the transmission or spread of information; looking at the legal framework for free speech, protection of journalists, and access to diverse channels and types of information; Dynamic Engagement: examining how users consume information; looks at freedom of expression, media and information literacy, digital privacy and security, the relevance of information to consumers, as well as public trust in media and information; and Transformative Action: examining how people use information and take action; looking at how government, corporations, and civil society use information to inform decisions and actions, whether information is spread across ideological lines, and whether individuals or groups feel empowered to use information to enact change.

POLITICAL PROCESSES AND LEGISLATIVE STRENGTHENING

House Democracy Partnership (HDP)

Partner: National Democratic Institute (NDI) and International Republican Institute (IRI)

Active: Ongoing

NDI and IRI help to support the House Democracy Partnership (HDP), a bipartisan commission of the U.S. House of Representatives that facilitates exchange programs and aims to strengthen democratic legislatures in new or restored democracies. HDP uses peer-to-peer exchange programs, training seminars for members and staff, and targeted material assistance to build capacity in key areas such as legislative oversight, budget analysis, committee operations, constituent relations, and library and research services. Its singular focus on the legislative branch of government and its unique ability to bring together American legislators and their peers from around the world have made the commission a valuable forum for strengthening democratic institutions and deepening bilateral relations.
